

Guided by the North Star, Harriet Tubman escaped to Canada from slavery in Maryland in 1849. At the risk of her freedom she returned to Maryland again and again to lead out others, including her own aged parents, by way of the Underground Railroad. In the Deep South during the Civil War she served the North as a spy and scout. She died in 1913 at age 90.